

The Next Generation of Online Football Arrives

Big cash prizes and 24/7 instant play thanks to coreFootball: the most advanced online football management sim on the web.

The world of online football management simulations is set to change forever this summer. Global coreSports, a new game developer set to bring innovation and convenience to sports simulations, will be launching coreFootball, a multiplayer football management game that brings an amazing range of cash prizes within the reach of budding football managers.

To push online football games into the next generation, coreFootball uses advanced software to provide a football management simulation that can generate thousands of matches in real-time. This remarkable new technology allows players to test their skills against each other 24 hours a day, seven days a week, in a wide range of on-demand and pre-scheduled competitions.

Even better news for managers is that winning with coreFootball can mean winning lots of money. Free membership is available, but options for winning cash are limited to league and tournament championships for loyal members. From the 15th of July, coreSports will be promoting an end of first season tournament with a guaranteed minimum cash prize of £5000 that is accessible free to all players who sign-up in July. The prize will increase in size by entry fees received by those signing up to play in August and September.

Subscribers get access to a much larger range of financially rewarding on-demand opportunities. They can log on and jump straight into an instant cash challenge match against another player and place a wager of anything up to £10,000 on themselves winning. Private tournaments can also be arranged with competitors agreeing their own wagers and prize funds. There are also a multitude of official leagues and around-the-clock tournaments for paying managers. Prizes can rise to a mammoth £100,000 for sponsored high-roller and accumulator tournaments, which will occur on a seasonal basis.

Winning coreFootball matches is down to skill rather than chance, thanks to the advanced simulation software. Each match outcome is down to the manager's choices - both pre-match and during play, which are then combined with the simulated players' in-game decisions to decide what happens during the match. coreFootball, more than any other sim, reflects a Managers genuine ability to manage a team of artificially intelligent players.

With a range of game functions as complete as any offline game, coreFootball allows managers to build teams from scratch or start from existing real-world team templates. Like a real manager they are responsible for player selection, fitness and transfers as well as the assignment of team formations and pre-match tactics. During live matches, managers can use real-time controls from the dugout to monitor player fitness and performance as well as change tactics, formations and make substitutions on the fly. All live games are displayed through the managers chosen Internet browser, with traditional 2D pitch views or full 3D close-ups, complete with in-line commentary. Every live match can be viewed by other members as it happens, allowing managers to study form and keep an eagle eye on any virtual players they may want to sign for their own teams.

The whole coreFootball experience is backed up with an extensive online community with forums, chat rooms and instant messaging allowing managers to interact with each other in almost any way they choose. Those keen to get involved in the next generation of online football management can visit the coreFootball website at www.corefootball.com to sign up.

Visitors to the website should also take advantage of coreFootball's downloadable content, which includes regularly updated user interface screenshots, 3D game demonstration, virtual tour of the system and 'Keep Your Eye On The Ball' – coreFootball's very own football anthem.

About Global coreSports Ltd

Global coreSports (Global) is a developer and provider of massively multiplayer online skill-based prize gaming titles. Its first product, coreFootball, will be launched on July 15th 2006.

coreFootball.com will for the first time provide armchair football managers with the opportunity to pit their skill against thousands of other managers across the globe in virtual reality football matches played out live on the internet for cash prizes. In the coreFootball world, managers enter their own and/or favorite fantasy teams in a wide-range of instant challenges, tournaments and leagues, all available 24/7 on-demand and played for cash prizes of up to £100,000.

Global coreSports Ltd (GCS) was spun-out of technology consulting and new ventures group Execute Technologies Inc in 2005. The company's prize gaming technology platform combines client/server know-how with novel in silico technologies drawn from the biotechnology industries to deliver live and on-demand gaming competition and social interaction. The core platform can be configured with any strategic sports management game and can be readily ported to online, fixed terminal and 3G formats.
